Plutoville.com is a social e-learning environment for kids, parents, and teachers. The site allows the kids to practice for tests, quizzes, or just solidify their learning in a particular topic. Anyone can setup an online quiz and allow others to use the same quiz material. This online community allows all users to share in the building of quizzes and share in the usage of quizzes. Parents are kept informed via e-mail, texting, and through the website's dashboard. As soon as the child completes a quiz or builds a quiz, the parent can receive a text message within minutes. Teachers will enjoy the site because it allows them to build paper quizzes for their classroom. The teacher can input material for an upcoming quiz and then the students can practice online prior to the real life classroom quiz. Last but not least, kids are rewarded for being great community contributors by earning tokens. Tokens can then be used to play online games that have been approved by the parents.
